The Hatta Conclave

Exclusive leadership development programs designed for established and aspiring leaders in your organisation

Program structure

Prior evening reception

The Hatta Conclave begins with a convivial, informal evening gathering of delegates and facilitators in a relaxing outdoor setting looking across the Hajar mountains. This complimentary event with food and drinks allows everyone to mingle and introduce themselves before the main event days.

Focus of the plenary sessions

There will be a number of plenary sessions across the main event days covering the following ten topics:

- Identifying priority areas for personal executive growth
- Executive networking and business development skills
- Strategic executive thinking
- Leadership communication skills
- Leading in times of crisis
- Executive team development and retention strategy
- Successfully leading remote and hybrid working teams
- Harnessing technology for executive development
- Building a leadership brand
- Mental health and neuroscience in executive leadership

Small group sessions

In addition to the plenary sessions, delegates will be able to join small group discussions on particular subjects of interest. These will range between 2 and 7 delegates led by our expert facilitators.

One to one sessions

Sprinkled between the plenary and small group sessions there will be flexibility for delegates to arrange individual discussions with specific mentors and coaches.

Outdoor and evening activities

Hatta is perfect for continuing discussions in the outdoors. At this time of year the weather is perfect to join a gentle hike, a mountain bike ride, a kayaking session or a more leisurely visit to Hatta Fort and its museum. All outdoor activities are entirely voluntary and will be led and organised by a professional third party.

In the evening delegates and facilitators can choose to join the rest of the group at dinner in one of the superb restaurants in the hotel or relax and dine at leisure.

Program methodology

Facilitated self-discovery

The program begins with the session “Identifying priority areas for personal executive growth”. During this session, facilitators will work with delegates to help them identify which areas of leadership and executive development are most important to and appropriate for them as individuals. This is aimed to be a period of “self-discovery” to identify both strengths which can be built upon and deficiencies to be worked upon.

This session will help delegates focus the remainder of the three days on the topics most appropriate to them and help in choosing which of the smaller group sessions are most relevant to them and which of our facilitators with whom they should seek one-to-one sessions.

Facilitator roles

Apart from when they are on their feet, facilitators will be seated at the same tables as our delegates in order to be able to stimulate the conversation, offer and develop solutions, challenge ideas and generally drive the conversation. Each of the ten sessions will have multiple facilitators contributing. These facilitators will have four roles:

- Deliver a presentation
- Facilitate the general discussion
- Facilitate smaller group discussions on specific subjects
- Engage in one-to-one conversations with individual delegates

Delegate action plans

Throughout the main sessions, delegates will be encouraged to make note of key points relevant to them as individuals to then be used in a final session which will focus on the development of an action plan to be followed over the course of the following 12 months. All our facilitators will assist delegates to develop these individual action plans.

Course follow-up

It is essential that delegates do not simply leave the event with ideas in their heads only. This is the purpose of the action plan. However, we know that once back in daily life plans can be shelved due to other demands on both business and personal life. Accordingly, there will be ongoing follow-up. This will take two forms:

- Continuing coaching and mentoring provided by facilitators (terms will need to be agreed between individual delegates and facilitators)
- A regular whole group call for all delegates facilitated by The Consilient Consultancy FZE to discuss challenges, progress and successes in plan execution

The Hatta Conclave Facilitators

Our facilitators are from diverse backgrounds and geographies and have global experience in several business sectors. What they all possess is extensive experience as executive leadership coaches and mentors. Between 2 and 7 of our facilitators will lead each of the ten sessions. All will be seated in the plenary session room alongside our delegates to stimulate discussion and exchange of ideas. They will also take part in the final eleventh session to assist delegates develop their 12-month action plans.
